

I would like to express my concern regarding the behavior of Clear Channel Entertainment. In order to get attention, they promote very harmful behavior. I am specifically referring to the way that they have promoted cars hitting cyclists on the road since they believe cyclists do not "belong" on the road. They claim that promoting this was all in fun, however they many listeners called in and promoted the same thing. Enough cyclists are killed on the road each year--why promote doing this intentionally?